

PHOTOSHOP CHALLENGE - FILL YOUR HEAD

1. Take a profile shot of your head - from the chest/shoulders up using a camera or your phone. You can face any direction (left or right). Remember to use the rule of thirds. Use a plain/contrast background to make it easier to select.

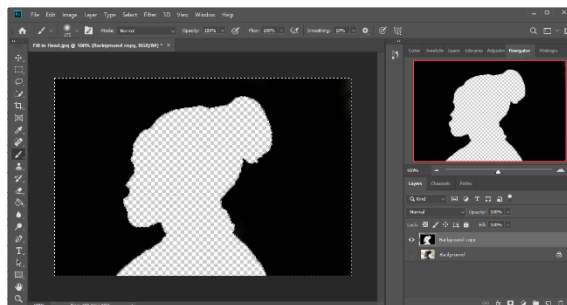

2. Bring your profile file into Photoshop.
3. Duplicate your Background layer.
4. On the Background Copy layer, use a selection tool to select only the background (everything but your head/neck/etc.).
5. Invert your selection by going to - Select - Inverse - and press the delete key on your keyboard to delete your head.
6. Turn off/hide your original Background layer (click on the eye icon next to the original layer on your layers panel).

You should now have an image that includes only the background, which shows the outline of where you were in the photo.

7. Use a selection tool to re-select the background part. While it is selected, use the brush tool  to paint the selection black.

8. You are now going to look for images (internet and/or your own photos) that represent you (interests, hobbies, achievements, etc.). Choose a variety of images (10+) to cover the entire profile.

9. Put the images in the blank space where you deleted yourself from your photo. Put each item on its own new layer. Try not to place the images overlapping with boxes around them (should look like a collage with mostly pictures and not backgrounds). Include several images and a variety. Use images that have meaning and represent you and your interest or hobbies - music, art, animals, family, friends, etc. Resize images as needed.
10. Drag the black outline layer to the top of the layer list.
11. You now have a black outline, with several items “filling” the space where you were in the photo!
